Dear Ernie:

Word just came in yesterday that your promotion has finally gone through. Congratulations! The action was inadvertently delayed I am sorry to say, and we didn't discover this unhappy situation until we checked on the progress of the action. The delay came about as a result of a new gal in the Admin office who unintentionally got lost in the procedures. However, I have every confidence that you will be willing to accept this delayed or not.

We continue to hear complimentary reports on your performance and consider that this advancement is well deserved.

I would appreciate a newsletter when you get some time describing the current situation over there and your own evaluation of the profit and loss aspects.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,
